THE REPUBLICAN VICTORY

Warren G. Harding has been elected president. By how great a majority he has won has not yet been computed but it is conceded that there has been a Republican landslide. Nevada itself, in all probability has added to this Republican victory by giving its electoral votes to the successful candidate and by supporting him through the electoral ticket. Laddie as senator and Samuel S. Arentz as representative. Hardly the latter are apparently elected with one-third of the votes secured. From the time the very first returns started to come in, there was no doubt as to the outcome. It is predicted that all popular majorities will be broken in a number of the western states and there is a large possibility that Warren G. Harding will break the electoral college record of 339 votes secured by Woodrow Wilson in 1912.

With the advent of the certainty of his election, Mr. Harding gave to the statement that he felt more prayerful than exultant. Such an attitude toward the high position of president of the United States in the past of the newly elected candidate augurs well for his conduct in office. With such a man supported by a strong workable majority in both houses of congress, the necessary reconstruction work in this country can be carried out. The Republicans are endorsed with the running of this government and the responsibility is individual. Their program of reorganization will be put into effect immediately after March 4 and with control of both the legislative and executive branch of the government, nothing should hinder the working of this program.

The result of the great solemn referendum for which Mr. Wilson and Mr. Cox were calling as that the league of nations as constituted at present has been rejected by the American people by one of the largest majorities ever recorded in this country. The entire result is a direct repudiation of Wilsonism and all it stands for. In truth it might be called the greatest repudiation that has ever been written into the history of any nation. The people were tired of one man government and showed it in the manner in which they cast their votes. That they are determined on responsibility in government affairs is shown in the way in which they responded to news paper appeals and voted in favor of the Republican senatorial and congressional candidates along with their votes for Mr. Harding. It is a great task which has been placed upon the shoulders of the Republican party and they, led by President-elect Harding, approach it with a sense of its greatness and with a solemn resolution to do their utmost to solve it in the best manner possible.

CHINA'S ASPIRATIONS

Dr. Wellington Koo, one of the most highly esteemed ministers of China, who had at Washington in leaving for London to become China's minister in that capital, spoke some appreciative words to the American people. In describing conditions in China, Dr. Koo speaks of its international affairs and the inevitable clash of old and new thought. "China is not the only country suffering in this way," Dr. Koo regards it as a sign of growth and progress. He candidly admits that China, being a land of immense distances, is inevitably handicapped by her lack of communication, by the inadequate railway system and by those physical means of communication which enable other countries to sustain unity of thought and purpose among their peoples. Nevertheless, Dr. Koo asserts, the differences existing in China today are of method and therefore superficial.

The Chinese are not adepts in the use of propaganda. That country has been and is the greatest sufferer from that "subtle agent," says Dr. Koo, which takes advantage of the friction and the ebbs and flows in domestic politics for advertisement, and so exaggerates and distorts the facts as to lead the world to believe that we are without stability and that chaos and confusion are the existing order in China. These are not the facts, says Dr. Koo, but in the face of this unobscured and persistent propaganda it is difficult for China, without resorting to similar methods, to present her case and hold the faith of the world.

America, always faithful to China and to the Chinese in their own land, cannot be misled by propaganda directed against the best interests of that Oriental land. Government and people of the United States are friendly to China and cannot be divorced from this friendship by any insidious and anti-China propaganda.

Once more American sailors have been victorious in an international race. The latest victory is that of the schooner Esperanto from Gloucester, Massachusetts, against the Canadian schooner Delawanna, in two straight races. The American boat took no practice spins in preparing for the race, and the boat was not given a thorough overhauling. Its captain, on leaving Gloucester for the racing course near Halifax, announced that the trip to that place would put it in trim. Its winning of the championship of the Atlantic fishing fleet speaks well of the hardiness and resourcefulness of the American sailor.

The Chicago White Sox baseball players who "threw" the world's series with Cincinnati, some of the go-betweens and two or three men who conducted the pools have been indicted and will be forced to stand trial. In the meantime an effort is being made to restore the game to its former standing. It is to be hoped that the effort will meet with success, for almost all good Americans are devotees of the diamond. There is some cleaning up to do in the Pacific Coast league, and this must be accomplished before next season's opening day, if the league managers expect to draw crowds and continue in operation. The men who don the uniforms of the various teams next year must be above suspicion, and this fact should be fully recognized at the outset.

"You can't win a pennant with a one-man team," said Senator Harding, thereby showing that he knows what he is talking about.

MRS. ALICE MACDOUGALL

Twelve years ago Mrs. Alice Foote MacDougall of New York city was left a widow with three small children and $38 cash. With the necessity of making a living facing her she invested the $38 in coffee, which she sold to friends. This was the start of a business which now pays Mrs. MacDougall a gross profit of around $50,000 a year. She is the only woman coffee importer in the country.

FAMOUS CASTLE IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Correspondence of Associated Press) SALZBERG, Austria, Oct. 10.—Schloss Fischborn, one of the most famous castles in this part of Europe, has been destroyed by fire. It was a rebuilt fourteenth century building, belonging to Prince Johann Leichtenstein, and contained a wealth of art and historic objects.

Held Whiskers Sacred.
If the beard has any standing in the world today, it is undoubtedly because of the Jews, who held their whiskers to be sacred, and swore by them. Later, the Turks did the same. The sultan's followers used to comb their whiskers after prayers, catch the hairs that came out, break them in two and bury them, on the theory that in some mysterious way the hairs helped to make soft walking to the gates of paradise. This the Turks firmly believed.
